

Course Description

Hugh Greenway's 42nd Annual Superficial Anatomy & Cutaneous Surgery program is designed to provide the basic information and principles of superficial head and neck anatomy and surgery for those interested in dermatologic surgery.

This cutting-edge program is designed to provide the basic principles of superficial head & neck anatomy and surgery for those interested in dermatological surgery. Each participant will utilize fresh cadaver material for superficial head & neck dissection. Lectures will be used for initial instruction and will be followed by ample time in the laboratory.

In addition, the course will focus on local skin flaps and grafts as they pertain to the cutaneous surgeon. Small group workshops will give participants an opportunity to problem solve with the outstanding faculty we have assembled.

2025 Highlights Include:

- Anatomy lectures and prosection demonstration
- Hands-on laboratory
- Reconstruction techniques including flaps and grafts
- Subspecialty faculty including plastic surgery, oculoplastic surgery, head and neck surgery, hand surgery and podiatry
- Expanded problem solving sessions

Educational Objectives

After attending this course, participants should be able to:

- Identify the principles of superficial head and neck anatomy.
- Interpret the principles of reconstruction of surgical defects including local flap reconstruction.
- Discuss full thickness and split thickness skin grafts.
- Illustrate the anatomic principles and reconstruction of specific body units (i.e. ear, nose, foot, hand, etc.)
- Examine indications and treatment of photo damaged skin, including topical and destructive therapies including lasers.
- Assess subsets of material basic to dermatologic surgery.
